OUR BOMBARDMENT CONTINUES.

(Special Dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.)
On Board Steamer D. P. Wilson, Of Island No. 10, March 16 - 9 P. M.) Everything is quiet at Island No. 10. The mortars continue firing slowly day and night, at intervals of every half hour, mostly concentrated upon the upper battery which is now falling to pieces. This battery has not replied for two days. Only one gam can be seen in postsion, and that is probably a "Quaker."
The batteries upon the main (Tennesseo) abore, and upon the Island, are also mysterionally silent. Their encampraents grow smaller, day by day, and transports still continue flying about, apparently carrying away troops.

The river is still rising, and everything is overflowed. The rebels are drowned out of some of their batteries and, are strenpting to erect new ones, but the well directed fire of our mortars prevents them. FROM CATRO.

But to attempt to empower a municipal on of the black race—the American slave. is at Fortress Monroe and Port Royal corporation to nullify and repeal a law enacted by the Legislature of the whole peojust such a stepping stone to knowledge as | ple, is a monstrous usurpation, and is you would throw down before the feet of your pet child, neat and bold in typograclearly unconstitutional. Suppose a majority of those voting at the April election should vote to abolish the Board of Police Commissioners, and the Board should relent, it is eloquent with suggestions of the fuse to recognize the validity of such vote, and appeal to the Supreme Court for protection, is there any lawyer that will say end? In how many States has it been a such election as illegal and void? Illegal simply because the Convention had no power to authorize such a vote before the new Constitution itself was adopted, and no power to enable a town, precinct or city to abolish and override an act of the Legislature. An act of the Legislature can only be repealed by a subsequent Legislature or by a Convention submitting the re-pealed proposition to all the electors of the State. The Convention has made itself ridiculous, and added another to the long could not be made to comply with it. In their flat position they remained until it was no longer safe, and then made a precipitate run for the river, into which they plunged, in spite of the urgent remonstrance and order of Col. Canby and others, like as many seared eatile would have done. Capt. Lord's drugoons, too, failed to charge the enemy when commanded. We are told that they are equally obstinate against command or extreatly from Major Donaldson, and no effort to resome the batter, from the peril into which they saw it sailing was made.

Bravery and cowardice are seldom placed in such striking contrast as they were during this charge. With their dead companions in arms around, them, and over which they had to climb to serve their pieces, the gailant McRae and bis men stood at the post of duty and performed acts of heroism worthy Sparia's best days, until none of them were left to do more, while those who should have come to their rescue ingioriously fled, and many of them fell dead, pleraed with balls of the enemy, received in the back.

When the battery was lost, the fate of the day was esceled in favor of the enemy, and our forces retired to Fort Craig, in good order, always excepting the companies above referred to.

Col. Canby had in the engagement about fifteen hundred men, consisting of regulars and volunteers. The forgeout the enemy under Gol. Steele was from fifteen hundred to two thousand. Our loss was, according to the best information, fifty or sixty killed, and shout one hundred and forty wounded. The loss of the chemy is variously estimated at from one hundred to five hundred killed and wounded. The latter is of course based entirely upon surmise, and the correct number will never be known to us. We have heard nothing in recard to prisoners taken, except that Cantain known to us. We have beard nothing in regard to prisoners taken, except that Captain Rossel of the regulars was taken by the Texane. His horse swamped while crossing the river, and he thus fell into their hands.

Capt. McRee, having passed from this stage of action, his name having been recorded among those of the world's heroes, and his memory ensuirated in the hearts of his countrymen, we will not here attempt to add even a spark to the lustre of a fame early won and to be worn throughout time. His lieutenants, Michler and Bell, stood by the brave Captain until all was lost beyond redemption. The former was killed, the latter escaped with a very slight wound.

SECRETS OF BULL RUN.

SECRETS OF BULL BUN.
Important Rebel Bocuments found at Manassas—Strength and Arrangement of the Army, July 21st—List of Federal Spoils.

Much light is thrown upon the disaster of Bull Run by the documents found in the described or the strength of the secret of the se the terrific inissiles of modern invention. More convincing than all was the attack of the French on Kinbun (exactly one year after the first futile bombardment of Sebastopol), when a strong fortress of fifty-one guns and twelve mortars, was specdily reduced by three inon-cased batteries. Though the latter took a position only 800 yards distant, the shot of the enemy had no effect. With characteristic sagacity, the Emperor Napoleon immediately proceeded to turn to practical account the experience thus obtained, so that shortly before the conclusion of the war with Austria, Freinch guaboats were in readmess to bombard Venice or Trieste. He also hastened the construction of the iron frigate Gloire, for cupolas. Having made successful experi-ments with one of these last year, it is now proposed to construct a ship of about 2,500 cons, to carry twelve breach-loading Aru-strong guns in six cupolas, the vessel to be without rigging, as she is intended for coast ons, to carry twelve oreacurousing and drong guins in six cupolas, the vessel to be sithout rigging, as the is intended for coast lefense. She will draw only twenty feet of water, and have the additional advantage of moderate cost. In all this, the reader annot full to note the fact that this plan is substantially the one aiready adopted in the United States with emiment success, as fillmatrated by the exploits of Ericsson's steam battery "Monitor,"—the latter, however, containing one essential feature not contemp'ated by English naval architects, t. e., the rotary motion by which the guins may be pointed without reference to the motion of the ship. It is also a remarkable fact, that in these devices of modern intellect, apparently indicating great progress, we are reverting to ancient meages. The tendency is orgenter dependence on personal prowess, as exhibited by mail-clad warriors of the olden enterprising, desperate and greedy enemy—by the Missouri sand Arkansas Mountainers, the Texas Rangers, the finest regiment of Louisiana troops, and even the savage Indians, almost without food, sleep, or camp fires, you remained firm and unabashed, awaiting the moment when you could drive back your assiliants or break through the iron circle by which the enemy thought to crush or capture us ail, and plant their rebellious flag on the rocky summit of Fes. Ridge.

You have defeated all their schemes. When at McKissick's farm, west of Bentonville, you extricated yourself from their grasp by a night's march, and secured a train of two hundred wagons before the enemy became aware of the direction you had taken; instead of being cut off, weakened and driven to the necessity of giving battle under the most unfavorable circumstances, you joined your fittends and commades at Sugar Creek, and therety saved yourselves and the whole army from being separated and beaten in detail. On the rotreat from Bentonville to Sigar Creek—a distance of ten miles—you cut your way through an enemy at least five times stronger than yourselves. The activity, self-pose easion and courage of the little band of o greater dependence on personal prowess, as exhibited by mail-clad warriors of the olden lmc. A few brave men, protected by iron slates, must fight our blittles on the sea; and netead of the Martello to were and walled tur-cts of the Old World, we shall very likely dept revolving towers of iron, or their equiv-dent in some other form. The Court took these letters as the basis of their inquiry, and, on the evidence, under oath, of the complainants themselves, the evidence has failed to substantiate the statements set forth in these letters, except in a few instance outside of the control of the hospital department, common to the army on the Virginia side of the Potomac, namely: for a short period in the month of December, 1861, the flour furnished to the Alexandria bakery was of an inferior quality.

No witness has testiled to Dr. Porter's striking patients, or otherwise punishing them. The only instance of men being punished outside of the hospital, was of a man who was drunk, who was turned over to Provost Marshal of Alexandria for temporary restraint.

Within the hospital, patients under treatment have had the usual mode resorted to of keeping them confined to their room—that of reneving their, clothes when they have violented the rules of the hospital of the set.

On the 11th instant, one of the editors and proprietors of the Patriot, in the absence of their associates, resumed the publication of the paper.

We knew, from the experience of independent newspapers in other cities under the flag of the Union, that we had but little hope of being permitted to enjoy, unmolested, the liberty of speech which was once progumed to be the constitutional rights of every American free-man, and were not, therefore, surprised when on Saturday last, Governor General Johnson, in an interview which he requested with the newspaper proprietors of Nashville, Imposed upon them conditions more suitable to the empire of France, whose imperial despot has baulshed a free press, than to Tennessee. We need not state what those conditions were. Unwilling to be transmeled by them we abdicate the tripod, with a scorn of servility which no power on earth can repress, and without an emotion of regret.

In conclusion, it is proper for us to state that our newspaper printing establishment has been leased to the employes of the office, and

If the South had known wins would have been the result of Secession, no State, unless South Carolina, would have gone out of the Union. We all thought we could go out in pence; I know I did, and laughed at the idea of the North attempting to keep as in the Union by force of arms. It was not possible, we said. It is a dreary place, this Mississippi river reary in itself and in all its surroundings, an exquisitely realizing the idea of Poe's wretch ed Ulalume. The skies are ashen and sober Spectral cotton woods, the very skeletons of the forest, relieved here and there by nebul of green, glistening mistletoe, stand up it eir knees in swamps, for miles in every di on each side, and rushes madier through the woods amongst slimy, decaying trunks and matted masses of dead leaves. The fog hangs thickly on the undergrowth near the mange, behind which the sider growth, dead and decaying, is fast dropping to the ground to enrich the soil even to rankness with heavy vegetable compost, and afford space for learned discussion to future geologists in their endeavors to account for the immense deposits of circular bits and ragged ares of iron about Island No. 10; if this historical locality is not washed away before another generation—a not Testeriar, the feet retained materially the same position as the day before, the Benton, Cincinnati and St. Louis anchored upon the eastern side of the river, in thue, and minong range of the upper battery. The Mound City was anchored at the point, in about the same line, but at a little shorter range. The remaining gumboust were tied to the shore, a few hundred yards above, exposed to random shote from the head of the Island, but out of range of the upper battery. The Conestoga cruised in the stream about half a mile above the transports, guarding the ammunition boats. The mortarbosts still held their old positions; two upon the castern ernoon, it opened briskly, the ats using their stern chasers, was well directed, the Mound City e k. It will be remembered that on the morning of the 14th inst., the passenger house of the Pittaburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad was struck by lightning, set on fire and consumed. Capt. Spalding, in endeavoring to save the valuables of the company, became suffocated by the smoke and annk upon the floor. He was subsequently rescued, but not until the fire had reached him, and inflicted injuries from which he had been prestrated until the day of his death. J. ALEXANDER PHILMOT.—The examination of Aleck Philmot, the young rouge, a chapter of whose salventures we published last week, took place before Justice Davis yesterday attenoon. He was arraigned for the burgiary committed at the residence of M. B. Smith, on Washash Avenne, on the night of the 35th of June last, Mr. Smith being present to give his testimony. The property—at least so much of its a has been found—consisting of two gold watches, valued at about $200, were fully identified as having been discovered on the premises of Mrs. Philmot in St. Louis, Mr. John Egan, an officer from St. Louis, was present for the purpose.

The prisoner is a fine-appearing young man of about 3st years, and as straight in form as an arrow. He hore his examination with coolesse, having no attorney present, and cross-examined the witnesses with much tact and shrewdness. He was held for trial in default of $500 ball.
